

Finding Literary Criticism in Chambers Library at the University of Central Oklahoma

When searching for library resources, begin at the library's home page at "library.uco.edu."

Central Search is our new, single-search option for finding articles, books, media and more. Central Search can search through most of Chambers Library's databases, as well as the catalog of library-owned materials. But additional databases are available for many subjects. To select and search them individually, click Articles/Databases in the menu bar at the top of the page.

This page lists all of the databases to which the library subscribes. Each of them offers articles from a different collection of journals, covering different subjects.

Those useful for finding literary criticism include Humanities International Complete, JSTOR, the MLA International Bibliography, Project Muse, and the Gale Literature Series, particularly Literature Criticism Online and Gale Literature Resources.

Help with these and other resources is always available from the Reference Librarians at Chambers Library.
